

MEDINA COUNTY SKYHAWKS COMPOSITE SQUADRON, GLR-OH-219

Description: Azure disc, Gules trim, hawk's head couped in Argent, Sable, and Or, Argent triangle with Gules three-bladed propeller at dexter chief, inscribed "MEDINA COUNTY" at chief and "SKYHAWKS" at base in OR, with Sable "OH-219" at middle base.

Significance: Both the squadron's namesake and that of the Cessna 172 used within Civil Air patrol, the skyhawk, is frequently found in northeast Ohio. They have a fierce reputation but are often quiet and gentle, with excellent vision and patience, soaring aloft while vigilantly scanning the ground below.
